The Future of Citizen Science
A Discussion with Rick Bonney
Cornell University - Lab of Ornithology

Rick Bonney is widely considered one of the foremost experts on citizen science. He has authored numerous papers and helped evaluate many projects that have come out of Cornell’s famed Lab of Ornithology. He co-edited the book Citizen Science: Public Participation in Environmental Research (2012).

Rick will be discussing the evolution and future of citizen science from the perspective of his experience and background.
